

Time to tidy up! How to clean your soiled combs and brushes

It can be so easy to forget the maintenance of your brushes and combs at home.

Here are some steps to help you clean and care for you combs and brushes at home.

1. Gather all your combs and brushes.
2. Take a medium tooth comb and from the base of the brush put the comb in and pull up to remove the hair and soil from the brush head.
3. Remove the hair from the comb and place in trash can.
4. Once hair is removed from combs and brushes. fill your sink with hot water and soap. I like dawn, because it will remove oil and dirt easily. Let them sit for a few minutes. this is so the detergent can begin to loosen the oil, dirt and debris.
5. If you have two brushes use both to scrub each other. If you have one brush use the comb by rubbing it back and forth over the head of the comb until you can see the bottom of the brush is clean. Then use the brush to clean the comb or if you have a small tooth comb use a small brush like a tooth brush to clean in between the teeth. Rinse in warm water and towel dry. Let your comb and brush completely dry before use.

Clean at least once a month. If you use lots of gels, mouse or lotions. Clean weekly This is basic maintenance FYI.

How to clean and beautify your Makeup brushes

Do you want to keep your makeup brushes for the long haul? This means giving your makeup brushes regular love and care. Keeping your makeup brushes free from dirt, dust, oils and old makeup is am must. Soiled brushes can cause your skin to become irritated and breakout. So here is what you can do.

1. Find a cup or a bowl deep enough for your makeup brush fibers to be totally immersed.
2. Fill cup with warm soapy water.
3. Put all brushes into warm soapy water and let soak for a few minutes. Maybe 5 to 15 min.
4. Remove brushes one at a time and clean under running water with soap. Gently lather brush with soap and rinse with warm water until brush rinses clear.
5. Pat dry brush and shape brush into original form. Let completely dry (sometimes overnight).

Once dry, your brush should be softer and fluffier. Depending on how much you use your makeup brushes. Clean at least once a month. If you don't use your brushes often remember to put them in a case or find some way to wrap them up. This will protect them from everyday dust and dirt. This is basic maintenance of your makeup brushes.

Cleaning your blow dryer filter

How to keep your blow dryer filter refreshed.

It's Spring cleaning time!

Blow dryer filters can really pull into itself lots of dirt and dust. Here is an easy way to maintain your blow dryer to get the maximum performance and longevity.

1. Remove the filter from the dryer or in case your dryer filter does not come off, clean with a small brush and wipe clean with a cloth.
2. If your filter can be removed clean the plastic filter by running under warm water.
3. Usually they will have a cover and if so, clean the cover with a small soft brush and warm water.
4. Rinse and pat dry. Let dry overnight and reattach. You are now ready to go.
5. Clean filter as needed. Depends on how much you use your dryer. This is basic maintenance for your blow dryer.